'Pupils are happy and safe at school. They experience high-quality care.'
Ofsted, 2021..

About our School

Our school is at the heart of the local community providing education, experiences and opportunities for children aged 4-19.

We consider ourselves one big happy Newfield Family. We believe what makes us unique is the expert way in which we create a needs-led provision matched to each pupil's key learning needs.

We pride ourselves on providing a set of learning experiences across a child's time with us which places the needs and the abilities of the learners at the heart of provision and planning. It is based on outcomes we want the pupils to achieve at each key stage of their learning journey.

We allow our children to lead the learning at each key step of their journey, and our common principle throughout is to think about how we can help them achieve the maximum independence and meaningful skills for life beyond the classroom across each stage of their learning journey and in preparation for adulthood.

We achieve this by applying the principle of never doing anything for a child that they can, could or should do for themselves.

Every day our pupils amaze us with what they achieve, and we ensure we set our expectations high for all of them. To us there is no such phrase as 'I can't' - we just say 'You can't yet... so let's find a way together'. As a result of this attitude our students make progress beyond expectations.

We believe the key to our success lies in the fantastic knowledge, passion and commitment of the experienced staff team. Nothing happens in isolation and everyone's contribution is valued. Our knowledge of each pupil's needs and focus on developing learning shines through all we do.

This team approach extends to our families and other agencies, so we can agree on the most effective ways to support our pupils to reach their potential. In its truest sense we work using a team around the child and family approach.

As the Headteacher I feel incredibly proud of what we achieve together. Our pupils are an inspiration to us all, and enrich our lives daily.

- You should speak to your referees prior to providing us with their details
- Once we have requested details from your referees we will chase them once, after that it is your responsibility to chase your referee to provide us with a reference.

What is a Right to Work document?

A right to work document approved by the Home Office falls into one of two primary categories:

List A - these documents are evidence that you have an unrestricted and permanent right to work in the UK.

List B - these documents are proof of a temporary or partially restricted right to work. These are split into two sub-groups to determine the point at which your new employer will need to recheck your proof of right to work, because of time restrictions on your permissions.

List A:

A full UK passport that confirms your British nationality.

A passport, national identity card or a Registration Certificate showing that you are a national of a European Economic Area (EEA) country or Switzerland.

A permanent residence card issued by the Home Office as a family member of an EEA or Swiss national.

Biometric Residence Permit indicating you have the right to stay indefinitely in the UK.

A passport showing you are exempt from immigration control.

Immigration Status Documentation issued by the Home Office, showing your right of abode or the ability to stay indefinitely in the UK - along with a document showing your National Insurance number and name.

Birth certificate or adoption certificate issued in the UK or the Channel Islands alongside a document showing your National Insurance number and name.

Certificate of registration of British citizenship.

List B:

Group 1:

A passport showing you're allowed to stay in the UK and carry out the type of work in question.

Biometric Residence Permit (see above).

A residence card issued by the Home Office, confirming you as a family member of an EEA or Swiss national, or who has a derivative right of residence.

Immigration Status Document containing an endorsement of your right to live and work in the UK, along with proof of National Insurance.

Group 2:

A Positive Verification Notice (PVN) issued by the Home Office, which indicates that you can stay in the UK and carry out the work in question.

A Certificate of Application that's less than six months old (along with a PVN).

Application Registration Card confirming you can take the employment in question (along with a PVN).

What if I have an expired passport or can't provide the relevant documents?

There are exceptional circumstances where an employer may still offer you work if you're unable to produce the relevant documents at that particular time.

Employers can contact the Home Office Employer Checking Service to verify your right to work if you:

Are able to produce a Certificate of Application, an Application Registration Card (see List B - Group 2) or an application to extend or vary your permission to work in the UK before the expiry date.

Your employer will be given a Positive Verification Notice to confirm your right to work, but they must repeat the right to work check process after six months.

Checking EU, EEA, or Swiss citizens' right to work has not changed, even though the UK has now left the EU. Nationals can still use their passport or National Identity Card until 30th June 2021. From then on, new immigration rules will apply.

Employers should check current passports, visas or travel documents which haven't expired, where possible. However, if someone doesn't have a current passport then employers can accept expired documents as evidence of their right to work in the UK.
